Plaza Hotel and Casino receives more than 25,000 website hits and 8,000 applications in first day of job fair

LAS VEGAS – As a result of the overwhelming interest in the jobs available at the brand new Plaza Hotel and Casino, the online job application website had to temporarily suspend processing applications earlier today. However, the website company has confirmed that the site will be back online tomorrow, June 28.

Officials with the Plaza stated that in the first day of the job fair the online application site received more than 25,000 hits which overwhelmed the website. Additionally, more than 8,000 applications were received.

“While we expected a large turnout, the response to our job fair surpassed even our highest expectations,” said Henry Terry, director of human resources. “We appreciate everyone’s patience as we work to process everyone’s applications.”

With about 800 positions to fill, the Plaza Hotel and Casino will continue to interview applicants during its two-week job fair that began today at the Las Vegas Club.

Job seekers who already submitted an application but have not yet scheduled an interview will be contacted via email when additional interview slots are open.

Terry added that the Plaza encourages applicants to apply online at www.plazahotelcasino.com as applications will no longer be accepted at the job fair. The job fair will only be able to accommodate those with confirmed appointments for an interview.
